Chef Umberto Menghi Invites You on a Culinary Voyage on Ultra-Luxury Silversea Cruises

Join Chef Umberto Menghi on a fabulous 9-day Mediterranean cruise aboard six-star Silver Cloud September 26 – October 5, 2011

He cooks, he makes wine, he runs a cooking school – and his ambition is boundless. A feast of a man, Vancouver restaurateur, Umberto Menghi, is one of this country’s most celebrated chefs. He owns five popular restaurants in Vancouver and in the ski resort of Whistler. He has written five best-selling cookbooks, including Umberto’s Kitchen and Umberto’s Pasta Book and his first cooking show, “The Elegant Appetite”, made Umberto a familiar face across Canada. In his series “A Taste for Life”, he explores the food, culture and landscape of Tuscany from the home base of Villa Delia (named after his mother), the cooking school and hotel he established in the ancient village of Ripoli in 1995. Umberto can also add olive grower and vintner to his list of vocations as Villa Delia is now producing its own estate wines and olive oil. Guests will also have the option to stay three days with Umberto at a Tuscan Villa including cooking classes.

CULINARY MEDITERRANEAN VOYAGE
WITH CELEBRITY CHEF UMBERTO MENGHI

Lisbon - Portimao - Cadiz - Palma De Mallorca - Porto Mahon - Ajaccio (Corsica) - Livorno (Florence) - Portofino - Civitavecchia (Rome)
September 26 - October 5, 2011 aboard the luxurious Silver Cloud

Lisbon, Portugal
Lisbon bears the mark of an incredible heritage with laid-back pride. Spread over a string of seven hills north of the Rio Tejo (Tagus River) estuary, the city presents an intriguing variety of faces to those who negotiate its switchback streets. In the oldest neighborhoods, stepped alleys are lined with pastel-color houses and crossed by laundry hung out to dry; here and there pastel-color houses and crossed by laundry neighborhoods, stepped alleys are lined with negotiate its switchback streets. In the oldest neighborhoods, stepped alleys are lined with pastel-color houses and crossed by laundry hung out to dry; here and there pastel-color houses and crossed by laundry

Portimao, Portugal
Located on the estuary of the Arade River, Portimao has made its living from fishing since pre-Romans times. Today a sprawling port and a major sardine-canning centre. The mild climate of the Algarve and many sunny days attract multinational tourists in all seasons, coming here to visit historical sites, playing golf, strolling along the river boulevard or exploring the many shopping opportunities. Stunning rock formations and warm seawaters make the beaches particularly alluring. The beaches are beautiful, but save time for the charms of the northwest and the interior: caves, bird sanctuaries, monasteries and medieval cities, local museums, outdoor cafes, and village markets.

Ajaccio (Corsica), France
Corsica’s gifts of artistic and archaeological treasures, crystalline waters, granite peaks, and pine forests add up to one of France’s most unspoiled sanctuaries. Mountain people born and bred, true Corsicans are highland spirits, at home in the all-sustaining chestnut forest, the Laricio pines, or the dense undergrowth of the maquis, a variety of wild and aromatic plants that gave Corsica one of its sobriquets, “the perfumed isle.” Its strategic location made Corsica a prize hotly contested by a succession of Mediterranean powers. Their vestiges remain in impressive citadels, churches, bridges, and medieval watchtowers.

Livorno (Florence), Italy
One of the most popular cruise ports of call in the western Mediterranean as it is the gateway to some of Italy’s finest attractions, the cities of Florence and Pisa, not to mention the delightful landscapes of Tuscany. Florence, the city of the lily, gave birth to the Renaissance and changed the way we see the world. For centuries it has captured the imagination of travelers, who have come seeking rooms with views and phenomenal art. Pisa is famous for one of the world’s most quirky historical attractions: its leaning tower, but this structure is one part of a triumvirate that offers one of the most dramatic architectural vistas in the country.

Portofino, Italy
Like the family jewels that bedeck its habitual visitors, the Italian Riviera is glamorous, but in an old-fashioned way. The rustic and elegant, the provincial and chic, the cosmopolitan and the small-town are blended together here in a sun-drenched pastiche that defines the Italian side of the Riviera. Inspiring poets and artists for centuries, Portofino is one of the most photographed villages along the Ligurian coast, with a decidedly provincial and chic, the cosmopolitan and the small-town are blended together here in a sun-drenched pastiche that defines the Italian side of the Riviera. Civitavecchia (Rome), Italy
Rome is a heady blend of artistic and architectural masterpieces, classical ruins, and extravagant baroque churches and piazzas. The city’s 2,700-year history is on display wherever you look; the ancient rubs shoulders with the medieval, the modern runs into the Renaissance, and the result is a bustling open-air museum. Julius Caesar and Nero, the Vandals and the Popes, Raphael and Caravaggio, Napoleon and Mussolini are among the countless luminaries who have left a mark on the city. Today Rome’s formidable legacy is kept alive by its people, their history knit into the fabric of their everyday lives.

Before or after travelling on an ultra-luxury Silversea cruise, you can further explore Lisbon and Portugal while staying at a local hotel or resort or stay three days with Umberto at a Tuscan Villa including cooking classes.

Tuscany Cooking School
Join Chef Umberto Menghi for three delightful days in Tuscany. Enjoy his hands-on approach to Tuscany cooking. His cooking class will offer you an escape to a time past where the richness of good food, wine and life are savoured.

Tuscany
Visit where Umberto grew up, and taste the food that inspired him to be the chef he is today. There is plenty to see and do in Tuscany. In addition to experiencing sumptuous cuisine and delicious wines, you can enjoy the scenic countryside by biking, walking or hiking. Surround yourself with rolling hills, picturesque vistas, fragrant olive groves, gardens, vineyards and pine forests. For the art aficionado, Tuscany boasts the greatest repository of art in beautiful Florence. Get up-close and personal with the magnificent artwork of Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, and Botticelli. From famous paintings to architectural masterpieces, Florence is one of the best preserved Renaissance cities in the world. Also just as fascinating, is a visit to the city of Siena, famous for its medieval cityscape, architectural marvels, abundance of churches, and small museums. And of course, one must explore Pisa, home of the legendary Leaning Tower located in the Piazza dei Miracoli, one of Italy’s treasured squares. Joining the Leaning Tower are three other great religious edifices: the Duomo, the Baptistery and the Composanto.

The more you see of Tuscany, the more you will become enlightened.

Popular attractions in Tuscany:
- The city of Pisa - renowned for its Leaning Tower
- The Italian Riviera
- The magnificent city of Florence
- The city of Siena

Travellers wanting to immerse themselves in the tastes and life of the Italian countryside will want to participate in a Tuscany Cooking School. Chef Umberto Menghi invites both amateurs and food aficionados to join him in the kitchen where students have an opportunity to learn the secrets of Tuscan cuisine including “cucina povera” (local food), pastas and Tuscan bread making from an authentic Tuscan!
